c. [REDACTED] has arranged to receive two copies of the Clandestine Services Policy Book, one for use here and one for [REDACTED]. The CS Policy Book is the fountainhead of interpretive CIA policy as it emanates from the National Security Council. This important compendium has not been available previously to OTR/OS. It will provide a central source of national policy for all OS personnel on a "need-to-know" basis and will be available, as necessary, in Room 115, [REDACTED]. With specific interest in the use of this book in clarifying policies and missions for the benefit of the [REDACTED] students, [REDACTED] examined a copy of the book, together with the originals of certain policy papers, in [REDACTED] office this week.

third and final week.

W { h. CE Operations Course No. 11 ended on 29 May 1957. In addition to

This marked the initiation of a war planning problem of four days duration in the course. Students felt this to be the "high point" of the course.
It is contemplated to increase the time spent on the problem to 5 days to afford the students time for more complete staff work. The lecture on the course, showing thorough preparation, conciseness and continuing interest.
